

January 4, 2012

To Whom it May Concern:

I would like to introduce John Phillips and refer him to your company for employment consideration.

Mr. Phillips recently passed the screen printer certification examination offered by American Screen Printing Association (ASPA) and has been awarded the ASPA Certificate of Achievement. He has demonstrated his competency and knowledge in the field of screen printing and has achieved Certified Screen Printer (CSP) status.

The screen printer certification examination offered by American Screen Printing Association covers all aspects of the screen printing process. Passing the exam requires a broad range of knowledge of the screen printing craft.

The ASPA screen printer certification program was developed by experts with years of experience in the field of screen printing and education and was produced in actual screen printing shops.

Please consider John Phillips for any screen printing positions that you may have in your company. We believe that he could be an asset to your business.

Sincerely,

Linda A. Berda

Linda A. Berda, M.S.Ed., CSP
Educational Director
American Screen Printing Association Inc.